

District Parent Announcements – March 2014

Pre-K / ECE

As a cost-savings measure, we are examining the possibility of blending our Pre-K and Early Childhood programs. Even though there has been some recent integration of the two programs, basically, the programs run parallel and operate as two separate entities. If we blend the two programs, the two programs become one. This blended program concept would slightly reduce the number of students served from approximately 45 to 37 students. As you are aware, our predicted budget deficit for 2013-2014 is approximately $500,000. This change would save our school district roughly $50,000 each year. This savings would be realized through attrition. The proposed program would consist of one certified teacher and two non-certified paraprofessionals as opposed to the current two teacher / two paraprofessional arrangement. The criteria for admission and selection process would not change; however, due to the slight reduction in class size, fewer students will qualify. Our Board of Education recognizes the importance of early childhood and the impact it plays in the early development of our students. We are confident this change will not compromise this belief.

February 2014

Dear Parents and Guardians,

I am writing to let you know about changes with state assessments. These changes may modify your child's assessment experience this spring before assessments permanently change in 2015.

As you may have heard, Illinois is among a group of leading states participating in the Partnership for Assessment of Readiness for College and Careers (PARCC) – an internationally-benchmarked assessment of applied knowledge designed to measure the new Illinois learning standards. PARCC will replace the ISAT and PSAE in 2015. As a member state, our educators are helping to develop these computer-based tests in math, reading, and writing that are of exceptional quality. These tests will measure students' content knowledge and key skills, such as their ability to think critically, solve problems, and use information from their reading material to write well-developed essays.

Before we can administer these PARCC-developed tests statewide, we must conduct field tests this spring. This is really a "test of the test" to see how well it works and whether we need to make any adjustments before students take the actual PARCC exams in the 2014-15 school year. This is also a chance to make sure that students can use their schools' tablets, laptops, and desktop computers to take the tests and learn of any issues for those taking the paper-and-pencil version of the new tests. Students won't get scores back based on the results, but they will get a chance to engage in challenging math or English problems and writing exercises. By taking part in the field tests, our teachers and students will play an important role in the development of Illinois' future tests.

The Illinois State Board of Education expects that by participating in the field test, students will take an additional two to six hours of testing this spring, depending on the content area, the PARCC component(s), and the grade level.

Teachers and principals throughout the state have told me that they are looking forward to the opportunity to become more familiar with PARCC, which is aligned to the new Illinois' learning standards. Together, we hope these new, more rigorous standards and exams will help better prepare students for success in college and careers.

Thank you for all you do on behalf of your children. If you have any questions, please contact your child's school principal or my office.

Sincerely,

Dear Parent and/or Guardian:

Our district has been selected by the Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) for a focused monitoring review of the educational placement decisions for students with disabilities. The selection of our district was based on district data that we submitted to ISBE.

The purpose of focused monitoring is to investigate compliance with federal and state special education laws and regulations. This monitoring process additionally seeks to ensure that the district is following appropriate procedures in making educational placement decisions for students with disabilities. Educational placement is the location where a student with a disability receives his/her education.

The purpose of the public forum is to allow parents and/or guardians the opportunity to share their experiences about the process of determining the educational placement for their child. The ISBE team leader will lead the public forum along with a parent member from the focused monitoring team who has the experience of also being the parent of a child with a disability.

The meeting agenda includes:

- An explanation of how the district is selected for focused monitoring by ISBE and what the process includes, and
- A discussion will occur on how the district collaborates with parents on determining the educational placement, the location where a student with a disability receives his/her education.

All information gathered during the focused monitoring forum is confidential, and those who contribute information remain anonymous. Verbal or written comments are encouraged at the public forum. The information collected during the forum will be reviewed by the ISBE team leader. The team leader will complete a written report that may include recommendations to administration regarding the procedures and practices for making educational placement decisions for students with disabilities.

ISBE has respectfully requested that district staff and administration do not attend the forum. Opportunities are provided at the district and school levels for the staff and administration to contribute information to this process also.

We hope you will be able to attend the public forum.
