5. REMINDER: DIGITAL CITIZENSHIP IN SCHOOLS

"Technology has provided administrators with some great opportunities for communication and data analysis, but for our students it means so much more. To help our students, we need to show that with all these opportunities come responsibilities. All administrators have read, or lived through, instances of cyberbullying, sexting and even suicide that have come from the misuse of technology. All users of technology need to come to grips with how to use the tools of today and how to become digital citizens." by Mike Ribble in his article The Importance of Digital Citizenship in Schools in District Administration, November 2014.
