

Observation 5th grade second day change lyrics cooperative activity

The girls group was having serious drama. I guess the student from yesterday even though they went with her idea was still upset because they would not “listen” to her ideas. I personally did not see this happening, but that is the story I was told. Another student didn’t like certain parts of the song so she was mad at that part. The drama did continue, but the lyrics were finished and the song was performed. I know now I will not put all of these girls together in one group. I will separate and probably mix them with boys.

The boys group was having a lot harder time working because one of the boys from yesterday apparently likes to try to impress one of the boys that was gone yesterday back acting up and just acting out. I was a little disappointed because yesterday they worked and were able to do a lot. They did finish the lyrics which were a little off for the song, but they did finish. The performance did not work out and I have no idea why because their practices were fine.

I did forget to bring the group back and discuss the songs. At that time, I was just glad everything was done. I will talk to the students today at the end of band class. I can play their recordings and we will evaluate the performances.
