All of the groups performed their songs. I really liked the concept of the steak song and it had funny lyrics it was unfortunate that the performance didn't go as well as I hoped. Down by the school had decent organization the students were a little too nervous for a clean performance. I could not really understand the words in the song Boom. We discussed how it is important to speak and sing clearly in order for the audience to understand what you want them to hear. The shortest and easiest piece to understand was Basketball. The student doing most of the rapping was very clear in pronouncing his words and even had a little groove going. I told them it would have been nice to have a few more lyrics to make a little bit longer piece. Overall the student's pieces were good considering they had never created and performed a song until now.
