Since her freshman year, she has enrolled in many challenging Honors level courses, Early College Experience courses through the University of Connecticut, and Advanced Placement courses. Academically, she has won numerous awards for earning the highest average in Honors English I, French II, Biology, French III, French IV, and the Senior Award for World Language.

Angela balances a demanding curriculum with involvement in several interscholastic athletic teams, co-curricular and extracurricular activities, as well as service to her school and local community. She has been an active member of our girl's cross country team the past four years and has competed in both outdoor track and lacrosse for two years. In addition, she has found much success in our DECA business club, having competed at both the state and national level. Her artistic talent is evident through her participation in our yearly school musical. In terms of service work, she has volunteered at bottle drives for Tolland Project Graduation, served as an intern at Feeding Children Everywhere, and assisted with the town's annual Cider Mill Road Race.

Angela is an outstanding young lady who is not only driven to succeed; she is also motivated to learn. She plans to major in Engineering at the University of Connecticut. Congratulations Angela!

For the past three years, Jared has been involved in the RAGE Robotics Team. In addition to building strong social relationships, this team has also provided him with an academic challenge. While Jared has consistently worked with the programming team to integrate code, he has also branched off to work with younger students interested in the field. Alongside other members of the team, Jared has volunteered his time to help with Lego Robotics at the middle school. While serving as a lab assistant at Wesleyan University for two summers, he has gained valuable hands-on experience with element analysis, soil data, and isotope data.
